

Archaeological Investigations Ltd

Copyright license

1. Description of items covered by this license

The items covered by this license include all material arising from the Oxley Park Excavations undertaken in 2004/5. They include all written, drawn, photographic and electronic records. They also include reports produced as part of the project.

2. Copyright

Archaeological Investigations Ltd (as the originating organisation) holds the copyright for all material arising from the project.

3. Terms of the license

3.1 This license gives Oxford Archaeology the right to post a PdfA of the items defined above (Section 1) on their library website on the understanding that this is for non-commercial, charitable and educational purposes.

3.2 Due acknowledgement should be made to Archaeological Investigations Ltd on the index page relating to the material. A suitable wording for the acknowledgement to accompany any such use would be:

"Reproduced by kind permission of Archaeological Investigations Ltd"

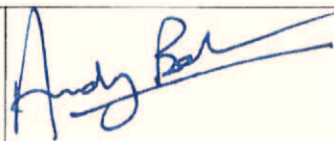

3.4 Any body other than Oxford Archaeology (clause 3.1) would need to seek separate license for the use of/or right to copy or reproduce the items to which this license relates.

4. Reservations

Archaeological Investigations Ltd, or its successors in title, reserves the right to use the items for its own commercial, publicity, educational and/or marketing purposes.

5. Duration of Licence

The license takes effect from the date of receipt of a signed copy of the same, from any body permitted to use the items (Clause 1) under the terms of the licence. The licence is perpetual.
