Project name	The Orchard, Queen Street, Hook Norton, Oxfordshire
Short description of the project	In October and November 2011 Oxford Archaeology conducted a watching brief during the construction of a new dwelling at The Orchard, Hook Norton, Oxfordshire (NGR: SP 355 331). The watching brief recorded two phases of post-medieval worked soil overlying weathered natural, together with a post-medieval rubbish pit. Evidence for a disturbed early medieval rubbish or cess pit was recovered from the backfill of an existing electric cable trench, but no evidence for the original feature could be observed within the trench sides. No other evidence for activity pre-dating the post-medieval period was encountered.
